The Great Motor Boat Races at Palm Beach Coast Saturday With A Gorgeous Parade.

Citizens of Daytona justly feel proud of the motor boats which represented the city in the races last week at Palm Beach. Four cups were won by residents of this city, the most valuable being the Gold and Breaker cups. Friday's events were as follows:

Third Event, 10:30 a. m.—Eight-hundred-mile motorboat handicap for the Royal Poinciana trophy. Entries:

First, Cornet; corrected time, 25:00.

Second, Challenger; corrected time, 12:35.5.

Fourth Event, 11:50 a. m.—Class, eight motorboats, for the Penney cup. Entries:

First, Enterprise; corrected time, 12:35.5.

Second, Frank Walton; corrected time, 13:25.

Fifth Event, 11:45 a. m.—Fishing boats, sailing. Purse $25 for first, $15 for second. Course triangular. Entries:

First, Heiler; corrected time, 25:15.

Second, Irene; corrected time, 26:00.

Parkinson's brought on a close and a half program of water sports that has been enjoyed from start to finish and it means that this auspicious opening of what is to be an annual event presages even greater achievements year by year. The officials of the Palm Beach Power Boat Association are to be congratulated on the success attending their initial efforts.

As a spectacular event, the grand motor boat Saturday afternoon races, the warm sunshine and the bright blue rippling water all assisted in presenting a scene of rare and unique beauty. Thousands of spectators lined the shores and shouted approval of the vigorous.

The regatta ball at the Hotel Royal Poinciana was a brilliant affair and made a fitting close to a memorable week.

Accident Occurred at Beach and Magdalena Streets, was Seen by Many People.

An accident occurred Saturday afternoon near the corner of Beach street and Magdalena avenue which, from the statements made by eyewitnesses, seems to have been due to carelessness, or reckless, driving of an automobile.

Simon W. Randerson was leisurely wheeling home, going south on Beach street, at about 1 o'clock, when just as he reached a point opposite J. A. Hendricks' store, he heard an auto horn sound an alarm behind him.

As he was riding on the path well over to the left side of the street he paid no attention to the warning, keeping on his course.

The automobile, driven by C. S. Blue, a guest of The Grand Hotel, overtook the bicyclist, pushing him along for a few feet, when he finally fell and was dragged several feet.

The auto being stopped as soon as possible. A crowd quickly gathered and the auto was pushed to the right and his wheel, when it was found that the bicycle was a complete wreck and Mr. Randerson had received a few bad bruises on one leg where the auto had pinched him.

A team was standing on the right hand side of the street, which compelled both Randerson and Blue to turn to the left, but there was sufficient room between the bicyclist and the team for an auto to pass.

According to the "rules of the road" Randerson should have been as far to the right as possible and, had he been there, no accident would probably have resulted.

Joe S. Davis, wife and two children, Atlanta, E. G. M. Miller and wife, Minneapolis, Geo. H. Dage and wife, Oxford, Mass; Mrs. C. W. Bower, W. Bower, Louisville; Chas. Owens, Atlanta; E. G. Smith and wife, Madison, Mass; Geo. I. Merle and wife, Washington, are guests of The Bennett.

A Poem for Today

THE BEGGAR

By James Russell Lowell

EDMUND CLARENCE STEPHAN, the greatest poet and critic in the introduction to "An American Anthology" says that of James Russell Lowell, the many-sided, the best equipped and widest the most consistent of the poets working in the new era were combined. Never was there a poet at once so learned and so unlearned, so other-worldly and so so close to the earth, so true to the truth and to the heart of his subject verse and the height of his natural vision.

And this may fill the mind's eye
And this may be a note of white,
And this may be a note of white,
And this may be a note of white.

A little of the stammering

A DAYTONA PINEAPPLE FARM.

Causes Much Surprise to the Many People Who Visit It. Pine-apples grow on Trees.

Many people who visit the pineapple farm belonging to Dr. J. P. Esch, about a mile from town, on Second avenue, express much surprise when they are shown the pine-apples.

"Why, I thought they grew on trees and there were lots of them on a tree," exclaimed a visitor there, yesterday. "Don't those little plants ever get bigger than that and have more than one apple on it?"

The plant in question was about seven years old and bore one pineapple, a big fellow weighing about nine pounds, and the visitor was informed that that was a fair sample of a pineapple plant and that it measured four feet in height.

The pine-apples cover one and one-fourth acres and have 10,000 plants growing about 2 1/2 feet of which are bearing now. The variety is known as Smooth Cayenne and is the most delicious of all. These are sold on the spot at eight cents per pound, the supply hardly equalling the demand.

When a pine is cut off, or if allowed to ripen and drop off, the old plant puts out what is called a "sucker" which, if allowed to remain, will bear fruit in a year, the original stalk also bearing, but the fruit of both is small. The sucker is generally removed and planted out, in which case it bears in eighteen months.

The bulk of the crop is harvested in June and July, but at all seasons of the year the apples are ripening and can be seen in every stage of development, from the bud to the full ripened pine.

The temperature must be kept about fifty degrees and to attain the whole tree is under shelter, keeping out the heat when the weather is too warm and, by the help of forty stoves enabling the grower to be warmed up in cold weather.

TERRIFIC, BUT NOT TERRIFYING

Says H. L. Bowden in Telling of the Record Breaking Speed in Which He Drove His Big Car.

Harry I. Bowden, who has spent thousands upon thousands of dollars and met with disappointment time and again, speaking of his proud achievement of driving his big 100-horse power Mercedes car a mile in 31.15 seconds, said:

"I have set the big car fast before, but never as it traveled that day."

"Coming to the wire everything was blurred and indistinct. The crowds were black streaks. The sand and mirage slipped away so rapidly that it seemed a fleeting picture."

"We shot between the red flags at the start and far away saw the crowd at the finish. This crowd, a black speck against the sky line, seemed drawn toward us with irresistible attraction."

"The wind roared in my ears and all I could not hear the engine, the wheels were a blur, the crowd seemed to be rushing toward us with irresistible attraction."

"When I turned I knew from the cheers we had set a new high mark."

"It is hard to say how fast I could have gone, but I do not think my gasoline car will reach 30 seconds with less than 175 or 200 horsepower."

"The trouble with the 100-horsepower is this year, in my opinion, is that their speakers are too large for their engines to get speed out of."

Ed Perkins Tomorrow Night.

"Every one is enthusiastic over Ed Perkins' lecture, and his talk is the talk of the street today. 'When can we have him back?' is heard everywhere."

The above is from Oakland, Indiana. Ed Perkins will lecture at the Baptist church on Palm Beach avenue tomorrow night. Don't fail to hear him. He is the greatest humorist on the American platform.

A Poem for Today

THE BEGGAR

By James Russell Lowell

EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN, the eminent poet and critic, in his introduction to "An American Anthology," writes thus of James Russell Lowell: "In Lowell, the many-sided, the best equipped and withal the most spontaneous of these poetical worthies, their traits were combined. Never was there a singer at once so learned and so unstudied; no other American took the range that lies between the truth and feeling of his dialect verse and the height of his national idea."

A BEGGAR through the world
am I—
From place to place I wander
by.
Fill up my pilgrim's grip for me,
For Christ's sweet sake and charity!

A little of thy steadfastness,
Rounded with leafy gracefulness,
Old oak, give me—
That the world's blasts may round me blow.
And I yield gently to and fro.
While my stout-hearted trunk below
And firm-set roots unshaken be.

Some of thy stern, unyielding might,
Enduring still through day and night,
Rude tempest-shock and withering blast—
That I may keep at bay
The changeful April sky of chance
And the strong tide of circumstance—
Give me, old granite gray.

Some of thy penitiveness serene,
Some of thy never-dying green,
Put in this scrip of mine—

That griefs may fall like snowflakes light,
And deck me in a robe of white,
Ready to be an angel bright—
O sweetly mournful pine.

A little of thy movement,
Of thy sparkling, light content,
Give me, my cheerful brook,
That I may still be full of glee
And gladness, where'er I be,
Though fickle fate hath prisoned me
In some neglected nook.

Ye have been very kind and good
To me, since I've been in the wood;
Ye have gone rich to fill my heart;
But goodby, kind friends, every one,
I've far to go ere I get out of
Of all good things I would have part,
The day was high ere I could start,
And so my journey's career begun.

Heaven help me! how could I forget
To log of thee, dear violet!
Some of thy modesty,
That blossoms here as good, unseen,
As if before the world I should be—
O, give, to strengthen me.

Service.
Only a word of warning,
Spoken in fear;
Only a prayer at the dawning,
Only a tear.

Only a penciled letter,
Written in pain;
Only a sad one encouraged
To start again.

Only a bright "Good morning"
To those we meet;
Only a lame one assisted
Across the street.

Only helping a schoolboy
His task to learn;
Only showing a stranger
The way to turn.

Only reading a chapter
To some one blind;
Only leaving a sparkle
Of light behind.

Only shading the window
For some one ill;
Only an offer to keep
The bairnies still.

Only placing some violets
Beside the bed;
Only the pillow turned
For the aching head.
—London Christian.

The Future.
Perhaps the darkest days are still
Away ahead somewhere,
But let him shrink in gloom who will,
I'll not sit in despair.

The evil that is dreaded grows
With every awful quake;
The worst of all our ills are those
That we from nothing make.

The dreariest and darkest day
May still be on ahead,
Yet, since we can but guess it may,
Why wait around in dread?

The pains that men anticipate
Are suffered o'er and o'er;
Our terror oft makes dangers great
That were but slight before.

Why may we not look forward to
The fairest, gladdest days?
The future may go winding through
None but delightful ways.

They have their pleasures o'er and o'er
And sweetly magnified
Who see them waiting long before
They're won and tossed aside.
—R. B. Kiser.

The Coming Brotherhood.
There shall come from out this noise of strife and groaning
A brother and a faster brotherhood;
A deep equality of aim, postponing
All selfish seeking to the general good.

There shall come a time when each shall be another
Be as Christ would have him—brother unto brother.

There shall come a time when brotherhood grows stronger
Than the narrow bounds which now distract the world;

When the cannon roar and trumpets
blare no longer,
And the ironclads rust, and battleflags
are furled;

When the bars of creed and speech and race, which sever,
Shall be fused in one humanity forever.
—Lewis Morris.

A Gem From India.
Single in every living creature born,
Single he passes to another world,
Single he eats the fruit of evil deeds,
Single, the fruit of good, and when he leaves

His body like a lotus of clay
Upon the ground his kinsmen walk away;
Virtue alone stays by him at the tomb
And bears him through the dreary, trackless gloom.
—Code of Manu.

Confederate Coinage.
It is a matter of history that the entire coinage of the Confederate states consisted of four half dollar pieces. The obverse side had a goddess of liberty (same as United States coins) in an arc of thirteen stars, in her right hand a shield of conventional design with "Liberty" thereon and below the date, 1861. On the reverse side was an American shield beneath a Liberty cap, the union containing seven stars—representing the seven se-ceding states—the whole surrounded by a wreath; at the left cotton in bloom, at the right sugar cane. The legend was "Confederate States of America."
In the exergue, "Half Dol." The borders were milled and the edge was se-rated.—New York Tribune.

The circulation of the DAILY NEWS is steadily increasing and on Monday passed the 500 mark by a clear majority of 100. Monday's edition of the paper was exhausted fifteen minutes after the last form was off the press. 400 for a daily in a city the size of Daytona is a very creditable showing and is evidence that the public appreciate our efforts. It shall be our aim to build the circulation to a still higher figure and to accomplish this will make it better and better each day.

The Clergyman's Hobbyhorse.

Visitors to a quaint little church in England observe a curious relic in the shape of a high stool with a leather top like a saddle. The parish clerk shows not a little pride in this relic and tells its story with relish. During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries the country parsons were accustomed to spend much of their time hunting with their country squires. Oftentimes the fox got more attention than the sermon on the following Sunday. Such was the case with the parson who left the saddle stool behind him as a relic of the days of fox hunting parsons. He was a good deal more at home in the saddle than in the pulpit, so in order to introduce some of the life and spirit into his discourses which he felt while in the hunting field, the reverend gentleman had this saddle stool made. It was placed in the pulpit before the parson mounted the steps. Once astride this hobby the parson was able to preach a much higher degree of enthusiasm and eloquence than he could have unmounted.

A Disconcerted Committee.

Ferdinand Hassler, the father of the United States coast survey system, was once waited upon by a committee of congress sent to inquire into the progress of the work. The committee reached New York and wended their way upstairs to the room where Hassler was drilling his classes and preparing them for the work. Hassler, who allowed no intruders, met them at the door and inquired their business. They answered that they had come to investigate. "What part of the work do you wish to inspect?" inquired the Swiss mathematician. Congress had no definite idea on that point. "Then you had better go and find out," returned Hassler as he shut the door in the faces of the astonished committee. The committee looked at each other and on second sober thought concluded that Hassler was about right and quietly wended their way downstairs and back to Washington.

A Toad's Cunning.

A scientific journal tells this story of a toad's cunning: A brood of chickens was fed with moistened meal in saucers, and when the dough soured a little it attracted large numbers of flies. An observant toad had evidently noticed this, and every day toward evening he would make his appearance in the yard, hop to a saucer, climb in and roll over until he was covered with meal, leaving alone which he awaited developments. The flies, enticed by the smell, soon swarmed around the scheming batrachian, and whenever one passed within a few inches of his nose his tongue darted out and the fly disappeared. The plan worked so well that the toad made a regular business of it.

Fevers and Foods.

In typical fever the intestines are the seat of the trouble, and all solid foods should be declined. Here nutritious broths and liquids are needed, but no meat should be given until the temperature has been normal for several days. In scarlet fever avoid all nitrogenous foods, because the kidneys and skin are congested, and these are the organs that excrete nitrogen. Their work should be lessened, not increased. For this reason any of the legumes, beans, peas or lentils should not be used. Broth made from those would be most distasteful, while beef or mutton broth, which is poor nutrition, can be readily assimilated.

A Good Blower.

A worthy dame of Dunfer, Scotland, in order to keep down her gas account was in the habit of blowing down the pipes, thus saving the hands of the registering clerk of the meter. All went well until a new inspector came. After examining the meter he ciphered long and earnestly. At length the old lady anxiously exclaimed, "A'm no' tae hae a big account this time, am I?" "No, mem," said the inspector. "It's the other way about. The company's owing you tuppence. You have surely been blowing very hard this time."

Domestic Diplomacy.

Grimes—I suppose you tell your wife everything when you get home? Grant—No, not everything. Grimes—Of course not, but the things she wants to know. Grant—My dear fellow, those are the things I don't tell her. I use up so much time telling her the things she doesn't care to know that there is no time left for her to question me about the things she does want to know. —Boston Transcript.

Gems In Verse

God, the Poet.

For us the poem of this world God wrote—The blank verse of the heavens, the remote And awful rhythmic measure of the sea, All nature's discords wrought in harmony. His books that run instinctively in rhyme. His leafy boughs that beat accordant time. His rolling seas, his hills and plains of verse. His rhythmic stars, that still in song rehearse The epic of creation—these, indeed, In God's own language teach our human need. Our need of him. —Grace Adele Pierce.

Water and Laurel.

Deem not, O son, that glory once attained Will last forever, spotless and unstained; Neglected laurel speedily grows dry; Unwatered, soon 'twill wither up and die. Not Fame's mere works can make Fame stand alone. Nor keep its name on the remembrance stone. It needs a hand to visit day by day. To cut the weeds and brush the mold away.

Fame is a fabric delicate and frail, Cracked by a breath and shivered by a gale; No height too great from which it may not fall; A word may jar it from its pedestal.

Deem not that thou hast risen over men So high that naught can pluck thee down again. Who stands the highest on the social scale Shall strike the earth the hardest when he falls.

Plant thou thy memory in the human heart, Marked by some sculpture of diviner art; Leave deeds of love to clear away the grime And grave anew thy name through changing time.

Thus shall thy glory and thy fame endure Upon the earth, immaculate and pure; Time then shall serve but to enhance thy deeds. And Memory's hand shall clear away the weeds. —Lowell O. Reese in San Francisco Bulletin.

The Lake Isle of Innisfree.

I will arise and go now, and go to Innisfree, And a small cabin build there, of clay and wattles made. Nine bean rows will I have there, a hive for the honeybee, And live alone in the bee loud glade.

And I shall have some peace there, for peace comes dropping slow, Dropping from the veils of the morning to where the cricket sings; There midnight's all a-glimmer, and noon a purple glow, And evening full of the linnet's wings.

I will arise and go now, for always night and day I hear lake water lapping with low sounds by the shore; While I stand on the roadway or on the pavements gray I hear it in the deep heart's core. —William Butler Yeats.

The Open Shop And "Parryasis"

By SAMUEL GOMPERS, President American Federation of Labor

TRADE unionism is attacked today more bitterly than ever before. There is this to be said, however: In the early days ALL CLASSES were arrayed against us. Today we have to contend with only a small and evil souled remnant.

In the days of our youth men who were not satisfied with wages and met to discuss means of bettering their condition were CONSPIRATORS AND OUTLAWS. They buried the records of their meetings and planned for freedom in the depths of forests.

One who ran away from ill paid or degraded toil and was captured was branded with a white hot iron with the letter "V" for villain or vagabond. If he ran away and was caught a second time he was branded with "S," for slave. For a third offense he was HANGED.

It is well to know the history of this movement to realize the valleys of tears that have been traversed, the myriad sacrifices that have been made, the lives that have been given up for the progress whose fruits we enjoy.

WE FACE TODAY A CONCENTRATION OF CAPITAL AND A DISEASE OF CAPITAL WHICH I MAY CALL PARRYASIS.

There was harmony between employers and employed until the silly movement to bring about what Parryized capitalists call the OPEN shop, but which is really the NONUNION shop, raised its head. Philadelphia workmen agreed this year with their employers upon questions of hours and labor conditions. The question of wages was no obstacle.

They were content to have a member of the Builders' Exchange as an umpire in disputes. They were willing to sign an agreement which would do away with the sympathetic strike, but they demanded, and the Parryized employers refused, THE PRINCIPLE OF THE UNION SHOP.

How inconsistent! What agreement would be binding in a non-union shop? What would be the sense of a union making an agreement with an employer who could and would Chineseize the establishment WHENEVER HE PLEASED?

THE SO CALLED OPEN SHOP MEANS A NONUNION SHOP. IT IS THE VEHICLE OF THE HYPOCRITICAL EMPLOYER WHO PRETENDS FAIRNESS FOR LABOR, BUT WHO HAS HIS DAGGER HIDDEN IN HIS SLEEVE. I WOULD MUCH RATHER DEAL WITH AN OUTSPOKEN ANTIUNIONIST THAN WITH ONE OF THESE HYPOCRITES.

I am IRREVOCABLY opposed to the principle of the sympathetic strike. It hurts the cause of labor. But I am more heartily against the nonunion shop, and to thwart the capitalists who are striving for that end I would resort to ANY LEGAL means, including the unsparing use of the sympathetic strike.

The small souled persons who are trying to turn back the clock of labor's progress are engaged in an impossible task. You cannot teach a man the alphabet and then prevent him from framing the words Man, God, Liberty.

The spirituality of generations of sufferers, the weight of millions of toilers and citizens are back of this movement for the UNION shop. Men are not going back to chains, to the sixteen hour day, to nonunionism, division of effort and SLAVERY.

WE REALIZE THE FORCE OF WHAT JOHN HANCOCK SAID IN INDEPENDENCE HALL, "WE MUST HANG TOGETHER OR WE WILL HANG SEPARATELY."

An Old Favorite

AWAY FROM THE WORLD

By William Cowper

NOW stir the fire and close the shutters fast, Let fall the curtains, wheel the sofa round, And while the bubbling and loud hissing urn Throws up a steamy column, and the cups That cheer but not inebriate, wait on each, So let us welcome peaceful evening in.

'Tis pleasant, through the loopholes of retreat To peep at such a world; to see the stir Of the great Babel, and not feel the crowd; To hear the roar she sends through all her gates At a safe distance, where the dying sound Falls a soft murmur on the uninjured ear.

DAYTONA and its Attractions.

DAYTONA is situated upon the west bank of the Halifax River at its widest expanse and halfway between its source at Ponce de Leon Bay and its outlet at Mosquito Lake. It is in latitude 29° 57' north and 81° 15' west from St. Augustine and one mile from the Atlantic Ocean, and is acknowledged to be without a rival for beauty among the cities of the South. Its site is upon a high, broad, level, crowned by nature with a most royal growth of magnolia, live oak, and among these are the palms of today, with their graceful fronds and well-shaped leaves and flowers. The result is that all along the wide avenues that intersect the town are lovely live and flower trees and shrubs, many of them draped with graceful festoons of the gray Spanish moss, that overarch the street and walks, and among these are interspersed tall tropical palmettos, glossy leaved magnolias, fragrant bay and coral berried holly, and many other varieties, while in many places the wild grape, the trumpet vine and the amolepis climb and cling among the branches forming shady bowers and adding grace and beauty.

The town lies parallel with the Halifax River, and extends for nearly two miles along the shore. This river is the delight of the angler and the yachtsman and forms one of the town's greatest attractions.

The main avenues that run parallel with or intersect the river are all 100 feet wide, except Beach street, which is about sixty-five feet, but has a half mile of open, beautiful water abutting upon its eastern side, where the salt waves ebb and flow and along and across which comes the cooling, invigorating and health giving breezes from off the wide Atlantic, which temper and render the Halifax climate one of the most perfect in the world. Daytona has many miles of well-graded, macadam and shell roads and streets, rendering it the

Wheelman's Paradise
and added to these, but a mile away, are thirty miles of smooth, hard beach, that affords an unrivalled course for long distance cycling and driving or automobile racing. No town of equal size, North or South, numbers so many wheelmen, and cycling is a favorite pastime with the tourists summer and winter.

The Beautiful Cottages
that have been erected during the past years and are being built are rendering Daytona as famous for its fine homes as for its beautiful river, trees and avenues, and they are adding greatly to its attractions.

Not the least of these attractions to those seeking homes in the South, and ranking second only to healthfulness and perfection of climate, is the fact that its population is chiefly composed of cultivated and intelligent people, accustomed to the refinements of home and social life. Added to these features are good churches, good public and private schools, stores, hotels, laundry, meat markets, novelty works, an opera house, electric lights for street and house illumination, a good telephone system, ice factory, lily water works, and hot and cold baths, etc., and everything else can be procured that is necessary to make life comfortable. An important feature in the healthfulness of this town is the

Water Supply
which is derived from numerous flowing wells, of which there are probably 300 in the corporate limits. This flow is secured by boring wells to the depth of from 50 to 120 feet, passing through several strata of rock, and this depth assures purity from all surface contamination. The water is slightly impregnated with magnesia and iron, and holds sulphur in the shape of gas, which soon passes away.

The Population of Daytona proper is about 1,500. Added to this is a suburban population on main shore and peninsula of about 1,000 at Kingston, Blake, Old Seabreeze or Goodall, Seabreeze and Silver Beach, which are properly a part of the town and population.

Daytona Beach

lies one mile east of the town. It is approached by three good bridges over the river and well-graded avenues, and is the principal summer resort south of St. Augustine. It has more tourists during the summer than all other places south of that city combined, and is also becoming a favorite winter resort. The beach is wide, firm and smooth, by many considered the finest in the world, and the surf bathing is safe and excellent summer and winter. People who have tried Northern and Western summer resorts declare that there are none so perfect in comfort as Daytona beach.

Automobile Race Meet.

The Florida East Coast Automobile Association conducts an annual race meet on the beach, which has now a universal reputation as the greatest automobile race course in the world. The Daytona-Ormond Beach is hard as macadam, and an ideal stretch of thirty or more miles without a break makes it the natural racing ground for America.

At low tide the beach is bare for 300 feet and neither carriage wheel, bicycle or pedestrian can make a hardly visible imprint on the smooth and well-packed sand. It is no uncommon sight to see sail-rigged bicycles speeding with the velocity of the wind before a stiff breeze along the smooth beach, thus affording the most exhilarating sport known to man. Besides these, miles of hard-shelled, palm-fringed boulevards bring the lovers of the wheel and vehicle into direct touch with the mainland over the broad bridges which span the splendid Halifax River.

The beach from the sandy bluffs to the lowest point at ebbside, measures about 500 feet, and the average depth of the surf measures about two feet. A continuous gentle swell rolls in from the ocean from one to two feet in depth under normal conditions, making the beach an attractive and absolutely safe place for surf-bathing. Here the infant as well as the grey-haired veteran of many summers, can safely enjoy the luxury of a sea bath throughout the larger part of the year, while the strong and expert swimmer, can venture out further to test his strength and skill in battling with the inexhaustible powers of the mighty ocean.

The Peninsula
lying between river and ocean is one-half mile wide, and is being rapidly improved, and there are many fine cottages and several good hotels, an opera house, two ocean piers, beach pavilion and a large casino.

A Remarkable Feature
at Daytona has been the yearly improvement in the style and value of the buildings that are being erected for homes. Men of capital of the North and West have become awakened to its advantages for winter residences, and valuable lots are being purchased and costly houses, beautiful in design and finish, are being erected, and beautiful homes, the abodes of wealth and culture are multiplying. Seabreeze (City Beautiful) and Goodall are settlements on the Ocean side of the peninsula across the Halifax River from Daytona.

At the foot of Ocean Boulevard, Seabreeze, a pier reaches 600 feet across the beach into the swelling surf of the ocean. This pier is a favorite resort of those who delight in the sport of fishing. The surf here abounds in trout, pompano, yellowtail, cavalle, whiting, drum, sheepshead and many other varieties of edible fish. During the fall season the famous sea bass affords royal sport, and it has been no uncommon occurrence to land a thousand pounds of this gamey fish in an afternoon, individuals of them ranging from fifteen to thirty-five pounds in weight. Not only does the ocean offer this splendid sport but the Halifax River, only half a mile back of the ocean, is equally famous for its fine fishing, and the varieties that abound in the ocean are present in the river.

Hunting and fishing good. Experienced guides and dogs may be had at reasonable prices.
